

PUBLIC LEDGER

FOURTH YEAR.

MAYSVILLE, KY., THURSDAY, JANUARY 17, 1895.

LARGEST IN THE CITY.

Purely Business!

The columns of a newspaper represent a cash value. No paper can afford to pay a circulation notice free more than a merchant can afford to pay for a box of fine goods or shoes. A newspaper is a legitimate business concern. It is common for a newspaper to pay its advertisements which are paid for, no matter in what part of the paper they appear.

The Continued Call upon THE LEDGER for free notices to the public, the arrangement that we are forced to publish the following terms:

For Notices of Sales, expositions, fairs, or other public entertainments, a fee is charged, and for ordinary notices, resolutions of societies, &c., a fee is charged. FIVE CENTS A LINE, and thereafter this will be an inevitable rule. This, however,

Does Not Include

notices of Lodge meetings or Church services, which must not exceed ten lines.

Assistance of Disputes.

Misunderstandings are unpleasant.

The rate for Business Leads in The LEDGER is $1.00 a line, and insertion and 5 cents a line for subsequent insertion and 5 cents a line for subsequent insertion. A cutter must be used to avoid a heavy cost.

When it tell you to take it out, he says it is a "kick" and a "controversy," followed promptly, and you will be compelled to obviate this trouble, no "fill folder" notice will be taken. If you have a definite agreement at the outset, and the termination will be pleasant and all round.

Any matter for publication must be handed in before 9 o'clock in the morning of each day.

IF you have friends visiting you, or if you are staying away on a visit, please drop a note to say so.

Mr. J. B. Robbins of St. Louis is in the city.

Mr. L. Thornton of Chicago was here on business.

Dr. and Mrs. M. H. Davis of Maysville were in the city yesterday.

Mr. W. W. Wilkoff is spending a few weeks with relatives in Maysville.

Mrs. Emma Malby of Cincinnati is visiting her daughter, Mrs. H. E. Pogue of the West End.

Miss Emma Allen, after spending several weeks in the city with relatives, has returned to her home in Newport.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dudy have returned home after spending a few weeks with Rev. W. H. Chidlers and family of Sardis.

Mr. E. H. Binzel, the new Agent of the L. and N., has been joined by his wife and child. They are staying at the Central.

Miss Cora S. Chappell of Carlisle is in the city attending the protracted meeting at Methodist Church and visiting her cousin, Mrs. W. H. Ryder.

MAYSVILLE WEATHER.

What We May Expect for the Next Twenty-four Hours.

THE LEDGER'S WEATHER SIGNALS.

White streamer—FIRING
Black rain or snow:
With black above—TWILIGHT
FROST.
If black's beneath—COLDER IT WILL BE.
Unless black's shown—no chance of snow.

The above forecasts are made for a period of thirty-six hours, ending at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening.

Let us respectfully invite comparison between THE LEDGER and any other daily newspaper in Northeastern Kentucky. If any one can find a daily paper printed in the Ninth Congressional District that has—

A larger circulation.

Or more reading matter, we will take pleasure in presenting him with a year's subscription to THE LEDGER.

Fire Insurance—Duley & Baldwin.

Frank Bradley, aged 80, died at Mt. Olivet.

John A. Doyle of Coveland gets an increase of pension.

The C. and O. pays $1,000 yearly into the school fund of Greenup County.

A marriage license was issued yesterday to Belvin F. Brierley and Mollie F. Bucker.

Charles Dinger was taxed $5 and costs in the Police Court yesterday for breach of the peace.

John F. P. Tolle put up a V and the trimmings in the Police Court yesterday for using abusive language.

The Woman's Union Prayer meeting will be resumed next Friday at 8 o'clock p. m. in the room of the Y. M. C. A.

The now famous Central Hotel Sunday selling cigar case will be tried again before Judge Wadsworth Saturday morning.

You can't fail to see the big advertisement of Rosenau Bros. on fourth page, and then you oughtn't to fail to take advantage of their bargains.

J. C. Smith, the venerable bookkeeper at Hetchinger & Co.'s great Clothing House, wore a smile yesterday that fairly outshone Heaven's brightest sunshine. It's a boy.

George Hunt, one of the faithful motormen on the Electric Railway, was married to Miss Mary Hise of the Sixth Ward last evening. The marriage was solemnized at Sardis Chapel.

There are forty-five survivors of the War of 1812 on the roll of the Pension Office, of whom fifteen are 100 or more years old. There are twelve pensioners of the Revolutionary War, but they are all widows.

Major J. T. Lyle left Tuesday for Kentucky with a party of five officers, gentlemen who contemplate locating in or near Lane. Most of the party were from Sardis this county. A few West Virginians joined the party here.

In the afternoon of the same day

Gov. Governor has passed upon a long petition, signed by many prominent people, asking for a pardon before trial for ex-Postmaster Hugh Mulholland of Paducah, who is in jail there charged with forgery.

The pardon was refused.

In the afternoon on the application

the Governor says that President Harrison pardoned Mulholland once for violation of the postal laws, and it should have made him a better man, and that this second offense shows that he has no desire to do right.

Mulholland was one of the best known

Republican politicians in the state up to his defalcation as Postmaster at Paducah three years ago, but since his downfall he has repeatedly been in trouble, and his chances for a term in the Penitentiary are now overwhelming.

A line of beautiful new Veiling just received by Mrs. L. V. Davis, Zweigart Block.

Small towns now enjoying free mail delivery are in danger of having that privilege cut off wherever the hard times have reduced Postoffice receipts below $10,000 a year.

At the Episcopal Convocation in Lexington this week Rev. D. D. Chapman of this city will read a paper on the subject, "Why Should We Go to Church and Why Do We Go?"

Constable W. B. Dawson yesterday arrested Walter Skinner, Charlie Jones, Russell Wilburn, Howard Blye and Zeke Smith, charged with malicious destruction of private property—the property being a dwelling just below the C. and O. Station, and belonging to the railway company. Their hearing was set before "Squire Miller" at 10 o'clock this morning.

Colonel P. T. Deering of Tuckahoe Ridge killed a monster hawk Tuesday. It measured 4 feet 6 inches from tip of wings. Mr. Deering says it had been the pest of the neighborhood for several years, and had probably destroyed more chickens than any other bird in the state. Tuesday he got on his horse and followed it until his trusty shotgun got in its work.

The lights from Dr. Reed's office went out with unusual brilliancy a few evenings ago. Passers by but little dreamed that a chess game for the championship of Mason County was in progress on the inside. Colonel Fred Bierbwer, the "S. W. Bierbwer" of the Mason County chess champion, and who stood third in the National contest, and A. D. McDougle of Germantown were battling on the chess board for supremacy. But, lo! for Colonel Bierbwer. Like the pitcher, he went to the well once too often. After three rounds Mr. McDougle was declared the winner and champion of Mason county.

HERE, BIER MARSH.

What On Earth Will Happen Next, My Dear Beloved.

Among the applicants for membership in the Blaine Club was Colonel James E. Fennessy, Manager of the People's Theater. It had the recommendation of George B. Cox. The matter caused some surprise in local political circles, as Mr. Fennessy has heretofore been a Democrat, and was, up to six months ago, a member of the Duckworth Club.

When asked why he joined the Blaine Club, Mr. Fennessy said:

"A number of us connected with the Blaine Club are my personal friends, and for that reason I thought I would make application for admission to it."

"Does your action mean that you have left the Democratic party?"

"That is what it means."

BIG MONEY!

A Suit Brought at Mount Sterling For $75,000.

A big suit has been brought in the Circuit Court at Mt. Sterling by E. K. Thomas of Bourbon county against W. S. Barnes of Lexington.

Barnes was a member of the firm of Howard, Barnes & Co., distillers, and did business at Mt. Sterling.

In 1879 and many subsequent years he had a strong following among his ancestors, he first won the respect and confidence of his employers and afterwards that of the community with which he came in contact.

It is more in the line of his social life that the writer of this prefers to recall his memory. He had a social acquaintance with many of the best families in the community, and was a frequent visitor at the home of the late Governor Blackburn, who was notably cordial and pleasant, more so than with any other of that day—but he knew many and was respected by them.

He obtained his consent to go abroad in society. His was a real acquaintance with the writer of this, and the memory of his social life is more vivid than his business.

He seemed to shrink from the walks of public life, and had no overweening pride in his success.

In the latter years of his life he gradually became an associate and friend of many of the best companies in the state, and in the last years of his life he was a member of the firm of Howard, Barnes & Co., which he had organized, and was a frequent visitor in his life time.

His manner was always quiet though his face was expressive and his smile can be a ripple over it. His clear eyes and his pleasant smile—never failed to bring him welcome in contact with whom he came in contact was sure. He seemed to shrink from the walks of public life, and had no overweening pride in his success.

He had a few months ago, and then again in the spring of this year, a stroke of paralysis, which he had to give up his business.

He died in the spring of this year.

SICKENING

Was the Scene at Bute After the Powder Explosion.

Number of Killed, Sixty; Wounded Over One Hundred.

Many of the Killed Were Torn Into Bloody Scraps, and Gathered Together, Could Not Be Identified—The Loss to Property of Millions Dollars.

BUTTE, Mont., Jan. 17.—The frightful havoc to life and property by Tuesdays night's explosion of a powder train in the rear of their leverett's men Wednesday morning. The mangled remains of forty-five persons are at the morgue, and a number more are missing. Over one hundred more are injured, many of them fatally. Every hospital in the city is crowded.

Many of the dead so frightfully mangled that identification is impossible. Heads, arms, legs and other parts of bodies were picked up all about the scene of the explosion, for a radius of five blocks. Fingers, brains and fragments of flesh were gathered up with shovels and deposited in barrels.

Between the Northern Pacific and Great Northern depots, a space of 200 feet, the ground was literally covered with the bodies of human bodies and with the dead and injured. The scene was one of utter and absolute destruction. The houses in the vicinity were as thoroughly wrecked as if by cyclone had passed through them.

Many of the killed contained no marks of bruises, having been killed by the concussion. Many were seriously injured by flying bricks, stones and fragments of a radius of several blocks from the explosion.

The Gaulois strongly condemns the president's decision to remain and characterize his resignation as an act of desertion while under fire.

The Matin says the president ought to have dissolved his cabinet instead of resigning his office.

The Figaro says: "If the president persists in his deplorable resolution to retire from office at this time, all Europe will judge him as severely as possible."

On the 15th, a deputation presented to the government, consisting of men escaped being killed. Chief Cameron was blown to atoms, and the only thing found of him was his belt attached to a charred portion of his body. The firemen who escaped were Drs. Moses, Dave Mcotee and J. H. Flanner.

Up to daylight Wednesday morning little or nothing could be learned with accuracy as to the full extent of the disaster, and the government deputed a party to give complete lists of the killed and wounded. Many of the former were so mangled and dismembered that identification is impossible, while the wounded are distributed throughout the city, and it is impossible, so that complete counts can not be made.

Enough is known, however, to warrant the statement that the death roll will reach sixty at least, while the injured number 100 or more.

It is not known exactly when the first explosion occurred. A small fire had broken out in a storage shed of the Kenyon-Connell Co., near the tracks of Montana Central road. It was not suspected that explosives were stored in the building, as such storage is in violation of the city ordinance.

The firemen, therefore, went to work without any idea of danger, and when the first explosion occurred, killing at least twelve of them, the calamity was wholly unexpected. The men rallied, however, and with such of the fire apparatus as had escaped destruction, attacked the flames, which during the confusion had gained headway. The work was progressing favorably when a second explosion occurred.

The first, it is believed, was caused by nitro-glycerine. It was bad enough, but the second, which resulted from the ignition of two bags of gunpowder stored in the side cars beside the burning building, was absolutely appalling in its force. The shock shattered buildings, knocked down chimneys and rent limb from limb of men who were within.

It wiped out of existence what remained of the fire department, killing men and horses and converting the fire engines in heaps of twisted and discolored metal. The explosion was the most fatal at the time, and the reason that when a quantity of gunpowder stored in the warehouse of the Bute Warehouse Co. blew up a few minutes later, there was practically no one left to kill. The last explosion, however, was fully as powerful as the second.

The warehouse was absolutely annihilated, not one stone being left upon another, and when the building had stood a great black hole, like the crater of a volcano, told of the force of the igniting explosion.

The list of dead was swelled late Wednesday night by the death of John Sloan, Sr., and Bailey Dunford.

The principal business of the assessors is the Bute Hardware Co., $60,000, no insurance; Kenyon-Connell Commercial Co., $30,000, insured for $6,000; Caprice & Brannagan, loss $12,000; no insurance; Royal Milling Co., loss $10,000.

The Montana Central railroad's cars in wrecked buildings and burned cars will reach many thousands. The destruction of residences in the vicinity and wreath of plate glass all over town will increase the total loss to nearly $1,000,000.

Counterfeiting Sensation Exploded.

LOXON, Jan. 17.—The Central News correspondent in Madrid sends this dispatch: "A sensation has been caused by the discovery that 24,000,000 Spanish silver dollars are in circulation. The Spanish officials say that the dollars are produced in France and America. Certain bankers here are suspected of complicity in the distribution of them."

Valuable Dead.

LOXON, Jan. 17.—Very May Marshall, 26, a widow, died early Wednesday night of lung fever. She was owned by M. F. McHenry, who refused $10,000 for the mare. Her world record for racing mares was made at Nashville, October 19, 1893.

Unspeakable Acts of the Japanese at Port Arthur.

A Newspaper Correspondent Takes Snap Shots of the Scene.

The Troops Lost All Control and Murdered Everybody They Found—The Inhabitants Driven Like Sheep into Groups and Shot Down in Cold Blood.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 17.—Among the passengers by the Empress of Japan was Frederick Villiers, war correspondent and artist, who arrived straight from the front in China. Witnessing the massacre at Port Arthur, Villiers said that unfortunately it was only too true.

The last plant of the Central City Co. was taken by the Japanese, who were operating it under a lease.

Wm. L. Reed, aged 76 years, one of the most prominent citizens of Daniels, Ky., died Wednesday at Orlando, Fla., his home.

At Galipoli, O., Abraham Jeffers, the thirteenth of O. V. L. Jeffers, who was well known in the city, was three mutilated heads of Japanese stuck on poles, and no sooner had the troops seen these than they lost all control and indiscriminately butchered everybody they found.

At Port Arthur, the Japanese had captured, Oyama said, the town and the townsmen should occupy the town and to perform this duty. They entered the town, Villiers (London Standard), Creditt (Morning Post), and Cram (London Times), being with them.

Joseph Vernon Whittaker, a veteran of the civil war in the United States and formerly attached to the staff of a Philadelphia newspaper, is dead in London.

Farmers of Adams County, Ind., have boycotted Decatur, Ind., merchants because they are not permitted to haul heavy loads over the brick streets of that town.

The democratic caucus of the West Virginia legislature Wednesday night nominated Hon. John L. Camden to succeed himself as U. S. senator. Two ballots were cast.

R. L. McLaren and L. H. Jenkins, two enterprising and charitable Bowling Green, Ky., men, have arranged to serve free soup to "the poor of the city every day during the cold weather.

Joseph Keetner, a native of Switzerland, living near Easton, O., committed suicide by shooting himself with a revolver. He leaves a wife and three small children in destitute circumstances.

Edward Sibley, the baseball player, who last appeared with the Brooklyn team at St. Louis, Tuesday, and was buried there Wednesday, was not married, but childless. His funeral was attended by ten league players residing there.

After a three hours' session and eight ballots in the republican senatorial caucus, the nomination was made. The session was adjourned without a nomination, an adjournment was taken until Thursday night after a hot fight in which the field was pitted against J. R. Burton.
